ADDITIONAL AMERICAN FORCES ENTER PARIS; INFANTRY FOLLOWS ARMORED UNITS; ALL RESISTANCE OVERCOME

Advance to Cathedral of Notre Dame, Official Commu-
nique from General Eisenhower's Headquarters Reveals—One Armored Column Crosses Sevres Bridge

An official communique from General Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters confirmed the entry of additional American forces into Paris.

By noon Friday one armored column had crossed the Sevres bridge over the Seine and another column had progressed into the southern part of the city. Infantry followed the armored units, advancing to the cathedral of Notre Dame.

Additional Allied armor and infantry have arrived in Paris, it was announced officially today.

All enemy resistance in the southern and southwestern outskirts of Paris has now been overcome.

McCrory, Nichols Sign An Agreement of Sale

An agreement of sale has been negotiated between William B. Nichols and McCrory's 5 and 10 Cent Store, by which the latter will acquire possession of properties at 112, 114, 116, 118 and 120 Wood street, and 238 and 240 Market street, if negotiations are completed in accordance with the agreement.

The McCrory interests, it is reported, plan to extend their present store on Mill street through to Market street, and along Wood street on the properties which they plan to acquire.

McCrory has also signed a lease for 10 more years for the property of Thomas Proby at the corner of Mill and Wood streets, which is part of the McCrory store adjoining, and which latter was formerly occupied by Edward Wallace as a grocery store.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEAINED BY SCRIBES

Quakertown Rotarians had an official visit from the District Governor, George Derry, Philadelphia, at this week's meeting held on Tuesday evening. Mr. Derry not only addressed the dinner meeting of the club, but, prior to the dinner, met with the club officers and committee chairmen for a conference on Rotary work.

"Ladies' Night" featured the meeting of the Chalfont Lions Club held at Kline's Hotel, Blooming Glen, Wednesday night with the president, A. Winthrop Hiscop, presiding. The informal program, in charge of Carl Young, was thoroughly enjoyed by the 66 Lions and their guests.

Following a delicious clam bake, guests were introduced. These included Sgt. Robert Winkelman, of Chalfont. Winkelman is home on his first leave since joining the Army three years ago; and has spent twenty-seven months in New Guinea; E. L. Crouthamel, secretary of the Warrington Township Lions Club and Mrs. Crouthamel; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Agee, of Chalfont; Mr. and Mrs. DeHaven A. Kane, Elkins Park; Miss Margaret Griffith, Germantown; and Mr. and Mrs. C. Herbert Haldeman, Doylestown.

Silverdale's lone nonagenarian, Thomas Doriety, quietly observed his 95th birthday anniversary on Tuesday, at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Doriety, Silverdale.

Despite his advanced age he engaged in a bit of victory gardening during the summer and occasionally strolls to the general store and post-office.

When the right rear tire of a sedan blew out Wednesday evening, causing the car to overturn three times on the Lackawanna Trail near Danboro, and came to a stop headed in the opposite direction, four occupants were injured, but a fifth—the driver—was uninjured.

The car, driven by Isadore Shechtman, 55, North 67th street, Philadelphia, was proceeding north on the highway toward Camp Hor-

TAXATION AND FINANCE

PART THREE:
TAXES IN DISGUISE
(Doylestown Intelligencer, August 26)

Taxes are the moneys which citizens turn over to the government to finance public affairs.

The longest stride toward good government will have been taken when it is universally recognized that taxes really are paid, not by individuals, but by the whole people.

Outside of sheer confiscation of individual properties, such as has happened with none-too-happy final results in certain revolutions, the ingenuity of man has never discovered a form of taxes which are paid by the individual without being shared by the community.

The "tax the rich" programs, the "tax according to ability to pay" theories, however well motivated by some of their exponents, cannot really attain their objectives; because the excess tax of the individual almost un-failingly is passed along by one process or another, while deficiencies in the payments of other individuals also are made up indirectly.

This is a fact which may not be freely accepted by some reformers; but it is one of which both Communists and State-Socialists long ago had a fairly complete understanding. One basic object of total governments always has been "equalize taxes" by wiping them out—by having all property and earnings owned by the government itself, so that it didn't collect taxes at all, but it merely kept them.

To go still a step further off the beaten track, this may be a good occasion to observe that instead of strengthening the finances of the nations, strong centralization weakens them. Two factors, reasonably possible of control in a democracy, are unbridled when the central government becomes too strong. One is the overhead—the cost of running government; centralization means bureaucracy and bureaucracy means waste motion and duplication, growth of the size and extent of the government out of all proportion to either need or revenue. The spenders of public money gradually tend to become more numerous than the producers of it.

Second, too much power in the government unleashes the experimental, speculative tendencies which are restricted in democratic countries. If the people themselves, who are bound to be the ones who will wind up paying the bill, lack either the will or the ability to hold down the amount, there are few governments indeed which will economize for their subjects.

To return to the subject of taxes, a people who have authority sovereign to that of the government itself, and who accept as basic the proposition that they as a whole will eventually pay the tax bill have made the first great stride toward good and sound administration of public affairs.

But this is far from being the whole journey. What also needs understanding is that other factors besides the mere tax laws enter the tax picture. Taxes may be greatly

Urges Scout Support

JUDGE HIRAM H. KELLER

JUDGE KELLER ASKS SUPPORT FOR SCOUTS

Appeals to Public to Put Drive for $20,000 Over The Top

DRIVE STARTS SOON

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 26—Judge Hiram H. Keller, of the Bucks county courts—president of the Bucks County Council, Boy Scouts of America—today issued an appeal for county-wide support for the $20,000 maintenance drive that will get under way shortly, for the Scout movement in the county.

"Old enough to understand, too young to fight, today American boys of Cub and Scout age in Bucks county by the hundreds look for action and adventure, but where will they find it?"

That's part of Judge Keller's timely statement issued at his offices here as announcement of the campaign was made.

"No one questions the seriousness of the youth problem today," Judge Keller commented. "All the boys in the county of Cub and Scout age want a part in the war. They have enthusiasm and energy unlimited. They need only to have some one point the way."

"We of Bucks county intend to do something about it. We are determined to secure additional sponsoring institutions for new Cub Scouts, Scout troops and Senior Scout units."

"To achieve these ends we need the help of every individual in Bucks county. It may be a real sacrifice for you to give to them now, but your generosity today may save many lives and thousands of dollars in years to come."

The maintenance fund is used to maintain the Scouts' physical fitness program, camping and outdoor activities, training program for leaders, organization of new units, Camp Ockenickon and war-time activities and services for the balance of 1944 and through part of 1945.

BABY BOY ARRIVES

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Tannebaum, Bristol Terrace, are parents of a boy born Friday in the Wagner hospital. The baby weighed 8 lbs., 1 oz., and is named Martin Edward.

Blackout Date Is Still Undecided

HARRISBURG, Aug. 26—County Defense Councils were advised today that there was no assurance that an air raid drill would be held in Pennsylvania before September 1st, as previously announced.

Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchison, executive director of the State Council of Defense, sent the following telegram to county chairmen:

"In a bulletin, we informed you an air raid drill would be called by the Army before September 1st. No such drill is now assured before September 1st, and we have no information as to when such drill will be called."

Surprise Is Arranged For Mrs. John Gallagher

Mrs. John Gallagher, Bristol Terrace, was tendered a surprise party, Tuesday evening, at the home of Mrs. Lyman Croshaw, Schumacher Drive. The evening was enjoyed playing cards, and prizes were given.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. R. Jones, Mrs. A. Kessel, Mrs. W. Heffernan, Mrs. E. Schaeffer, Mrs. R. James, Mrs. R. Hoezle, Mrs. J. Cerutti, Mrs. Joseph Ryan, Mrs. R. Turley, Mrs. W. Parr, Mrs. F. Esposito.

GOVERNMENT TO PAY $14,277.48 TO SCHOOLS

Bristol Twp. School District Will Receive Money In Lieu of Taxes

TO MAIL CHECKS SOON

Checks totaling $14,277.48, payments in lieu of taxes on Bristol Terrace I and Bristol Terrace II war housing projects, will shortly be mailed to the Bristol Township School District, according to word just received by Arthur Frank, Housing Manager from John A. Kervick, Regional Director of the Federal Public Housing Authority.

The payments were calculated on the local tax rate for the year beginning July 1, 1944.

Mr. Kervick pointed out that payments in lieu of taxes approximate taxes which would be paid upon such projects if they were not legally exempt from taxation. However, he explained that the law permits appropriate allowances for expenditures made by the Federal Government for streets, utilities or other public services for such projects.

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS

Allied Troops Move for Final Kill near Elbeuf

Supreme Headquarters, AEF—Allied troops were moving in today for a final kill against the remnants of the German Seventh Army which have now been sealed off in a small pocket on the west bank of the Seine River near Elbeuf. The news was made known officially as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced that all organized German resistance in Paris has now ended.

A junction of American and British forces in the Elbeuf area succeeded in sealing off the retreating Germans on a line running from that town to Brionne and then eastward along the Risle river. American and other Allied forces are now moving in the final kill between the Risle and the Seine. British and Canadian troops have crossed the Risle at many places and now hold both banks as far north as Mont Fort-Sur-Risle. The Canadian forces, said officially to be moving at top speed, are nearing the Seine everywhere from Louviers to the sea. One armored column has reached the Seine east of Louviers at St. Pierre Du Vauvray. The Yank penetration to Troyes was said to be causing the Germans to withdraw northeast from Montargis.

In the lower Seine area, the Nazis are continuing to get across the river north of Elbeuf. The American bridgehead at Gassicourt is still considered secure. The whole west bank of the Seine from Mantes to Elbeuf has now been cleared of the enemy. American forces also were officially reported as having crossed the Seine in the Corbell area. Canadian forces are within eight miles of Rouen, although still on the west side of the Seine.

Robot Bomb Sites Battered by Allies

London—Nazi industrial and communications facilities over wide stretches of western Europe, and robot bomb sites in northern France were battered last night by armadas totalling more than 1,000 RAF heavy bombers, the British Air Ministry announced today.

Simultaneously, official sources announced Ninth Air Force bombers supporting the American advance through France have wrought a terrific toll among enemy transport columns, including more than 1,000 motor vehicles in the last three days. Industrial plants at Russelsheim were hit in a highly concentrated assault. The manufacturing and railroad city of Danstadt also was attacked and mines laid in enemy waters.

SCHOOLS TO HAVE SERVICES OF SPEECH CORRECTIONIST

Bristol, Bensalem and Morrisville To Join In New Department

OPENING HERE ON 5TH

Bath Street Building Has Been Renovated; Other Buildings Improved

Bristol, Bensalem and Morrisville public schools will share during the coming school term the services of a speech correctionist. This is a new position, and the young woman who will be in charge of this at the three schools in this area is Miss Jean Schrader, of Shamokin. Miss Schrader is a graduate of Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

A number of changes are announced for the coming term in Bristol public school facility.

Tuesday, September 5th, is the date for pupils to register, and the time for teachers to report at the schools, states Warren P. Snyder, superintendent of Bristol public schools. New pupils will be accepted who will be six years of age on or before January 31, 1945. New pupils must present certificates of successful vaccination, also birth certificates.

All pupils are to report on Wednesday, Sept. 6th, when half-day sessions will be in order, and will continue on Sept. 7th and 8th. Schools will operate on full day sessions beginning Monday, September 11th.

A number of changes and improvements are noted in the various buildings. Bath street school has been painted inside and outside. Modern lighting and complete re-wiring make a transformation in this building. New floors will be placed. The painting of the rooms is a special feature. Following the new trend of having various color plans in the separate classrooms, each room is painted in a different combination of two-tone colors. This is an excellent example of renovation of an old building, states Mr. Snyder, who points to the attractive appearance of this 62-year-old structure. New wardrobes are to be installed later, and toilet rooms renovated. It is planned to have a visitation period after alterations are completed, so the public can view the improvements.

At Wood street school new wiring and modern lighting fixtures are being installed.

New wiring and modern lighting has been completed at Washington street building; also new plumbing. The high school building improvements include new tubes in the boilers and general repairs and painting.

For maintenance of the buildings in good order, John McGinley, Locust street, has been assigned as janitor at Washington street structure; and James Roche will be an additional janitor at the high school.

Other new teachers, in addition to Miss Schrader, are as follows: John A. Campbell, who has been at Church Farm School. He will fill Mr. Reber's position as teacher of physics. Mr. Campbell, who has had 29 years teaching experience, is a graduate of Franklin & Marshall College.

Harold Stackhouse comes from Catesburg high school to serve as coach and teach physical education. He replaces Mr. Bartholomew and Thomas Campton who are on

DISPOSAL OF WAR HOUSING

One aspect of the gigantic problem of disposing of government-owned war surpluses, soon to receive consideration in Congress, has already been taken care of. The Lanham Act of 1940 establishes the policies to be followed by the government in disposing of housing constructed with public funds during World War II.

The Lanham Act provides that:

Housing of permanent construction shall be sold to private buyers "as expeditiously as possible," after the President shall have declared the war emergency at an end.

Temporary housing at war plants, military reservations and elsewhere is to be demolished "as promptly as may be practicable in the public interest," and in any event within a period of two years after the close of the war.

Demountable dwellings of permanent construction, of which approximately 85,000 have been erected—most of them on leased land—may be resold for demounting and reassembling.

Temporary dormitories on park lands and other public grounds are to be removed within two years after the termination of hostilities.

The National Housing Agency announces that it is at present laying plans for disposal of the permanent housing, erected at a cost of $1,000,000,000, which is to be sold "as expeditiously as possible" at "a fair market price." The law provides that none of this housing may be conveyed to any public or private agency or organized for slum clearance or to provide dwellings for low-income families.

First chance to purchase the permanent properties is to be given to large buyers willing to take entire projects off the government's hands. One such sale has already been consummated, with the recent transfer to private ownership of a $3,615,000 Defense Homes Corporation project at Newport News, Virginia. Where properties are not purchased as a whole, preference in the purchase of separate units probably will be given to present occupants or to war veterans.

The units range in value from $4,000 to $10,000. Government-guaranteed loans up to $2,000, without interest for the first year, will be available to veterans for down payments under the "GI Bill of Rights."

While the Presidential party was making the grand tour, it seems surprising that nobody was thoughtful enough to distribute absentee-voter ballots.

Britain and the United States have reached an agreement on a program for postwar oil which, it is to be hoped, has no provision for "A" rations.

The manner in which Yanks headed for Paris is an indication they remember stories doughboys of 1918 told about the place.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

tortal and political routine which ordains that on the first Monday in September our public men—especially those after votes—should vie with each other in fulsome eulogy of the performances of labor. Especially has this been the nauseating custom since the war began—nauseating because the eulogies conflict so violently with the facts and are so clearly insincere.

GOVERNOR DEWEY, from whom something different might reasonably have been expected, fell into step and in his proclamation echoed the extravagant eulogies of Administration spokesmen from the President down. He spoke of the special pride he took in the great patriotism of labor since Pearl Harbor, though that very day the Government had been forced to seize 19 machine shops where indefensible strikes were impending. He dwelt upon the fact that there had been no single major strike in New York, but passed over the fact that there have been literally thousands of strikes in the nation—and that almost every week sees new ones. He touched upon the "superb co-operation" of labor with industry in making weapons for our fighting men and strongly urged that the restrictions imposed upon labor during the war period be removed as quickly as possible lest they interfere with the "free American labor movement and the right of collective bargaining."

NOW, MR. DEWEY did not have to make this kind of Labor Day statement. It ignores the record and it minimizes the facts. It is the sort of thing which helps boost the labor bosses toward the day for which they are working when they will have unrestricted and unregulated power in the country. It is the same sort of stuff upon which Mr. Roosevelt has fed them for eleven years—and still is feeding them. It is the same sort of Labor Day statement which, under suggestion, high War Department officials have regularly put out since Pearl Harbor, though at the time they made their statements public, their own department production was being badly crippled by strikes which had the tacit approval of the very men to whom they addressed their statements.

THE REPUBLICAN candidate could have declared himself and sincerely—the true friend of organized labor, expressed his belief in the wisdom of collective bargaining and his appreciation of the real patriotism of the great masses of American working men and union members. And it is unnecessary to maintain that the industrialists are either pure or perfect or that there are not plenty of greedy and selfish men among them. But he should not have ignored the fact that the record shows close to ten thousand strikes since the war began; that the labor bosses, calculatingly, have used the war and their political link with the White House, to force gains to which labor is not entitled; that the "no-strike" pledge, so widely advertised, has been wholly ineffectual; that in some cases the strike leaders have defied orders of the War Labor Board; that great as has been our production, but for the strikes it would have been far greater and we would have had far sooner many more airplanes, ships, tanks, arms and ammunition; that to the extent these have been delayed the war has been prolonged and the cost in men, money and material increased.

THOSE ARE the facts, and nearly everybody knows them. It is cowardly, because of possible political reprisals, to ignore them. It is wicked to hold these shoddy labor bosses up as great, unselfish patriots, through fear that unless they are so hailed the accusation of labor baiting or labor hating will be made. For 11 years we have had an administration that has been consistently subservient and servile toward them. Everybody in politics and in the newspaper business knows these things to be true. Large numbers outside both fields know and resent them. Yet, when Labor Day comes around, the candidates all ignore them and pile on the praise. It is rather a disgusting performance, and it is too bad Mr. Dewey fell into line. It was a fine chance for him to take a different stand because, with the CIO 100 per cent, for Mr. Roosevelt, he could have served the general interests by a fearless frankness on this subject, without really risking any votes.

The backyard, a nearby woods or park makes an ideal picnic spot without too much traveling. Though families may curtail their traveling and try to keep the spending of money to a minimum, it isn't necessary to cut out their recreation. However, they may find that they have to change their type of recreation.

Two or more families may plan to have their outdoor meal together. This gives spice and variety to the occasion. Last year in one rural community three families met every other week, each time at a different home, and ate their dessert together. Each family brought its own dessert, one which had been decided upon at the previous meeting. In this way, the dessert was all the same. For example, one week it was strawberry shortcake, another time homemade ice cream, and so on.

The families spent the evening together, playing games or just talking. The children planned and carried out their own entertainment.

Good fellowship, neighborliness, exchange of ideas, relaxation, and even leadership may be developed through informal family gatherings. A change from the regular routine and good companionship make up wholesome recreation.

PARATROOPER SAYS SKY FULL OF FIRE

By International News Service
NORTH BEND, Ore.—(INS)—Getting from the transport plane to the ground was the toughest part of the invasion of France for Pvt. Frank Kustick, a paratrooper who hails from North Bend.

Kustick wrote to friends that he floated down onto French soil on D-Day, June 6 and described the sky as full of fire. He considered himself fortunate to reach the ground in one piece, he said.

After landing the paratroopers had things their own way until afternoon, when the Germans began bringing up tanks. He and his companions took care of two tanks, and after a while the Germans took to bicycles because they couldn't get out of range fast enough.

LANGHORNE TRACK TO REOPEN AFTER THE WAR IS ENDED

Oval Speedway To Be Operated by Son and Widow of Former Owner

THEY HOLD SURETY

Racing Fans of This Section Are Keenly Interested In Revival of Sport

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Aug. 25.—Interest here centers in an announcement made in the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin Wednesday night that after the war automobile racing is to be revived at the Langhorne Speedway.

The mile dirt track, often reputed to be one of the fastest strips of its kind in the nation, has been closed since the start of the war.

According to the announcement after the war automobile racing will return to the track, Langhorne Speedway, it has been revealed, Ralph J. Hankinson, now stationed at Scott Field, Ill., an Army Air base, and his mother, widow of Ralph Hankinson, will promote the races. Mrs. Hankinson holds the mortgage on the speedway.

Many local racing fans were devious of learning who held the mortgage on the track after Lucky Teter died of injuries sustained in a crash at a fair several years ago. Teter, who operated the track for a short time, purchased it from Ralph Hankinson and quartered his famed troupe of "Hell Drivers" here for training purposes. In addition, Teter and his crew inaugurated point racing and other features to the Eastern dirt track fraternity.

Previous to the Teter regime, Ralph Hankinson, now deceased, owned the mile orb. With both promoters deceased, rumors were rife in this section that the track was to be sold or discontinued.

Officially sanctioned AAA auto races, midget title grinds, American stock car championships and Labor Day National championship motorcycle races were formerly held at the Middletown Township speedway. Scores of Indianapolis champions and money winners have competed on the surface.

The ODT halted all midget and big car racing at the outbreak of the war to conserve gasoline, tires and to make use of additional manpower. Several of the well-known stars of the past are serving in the armed forces while many others are mechanics in aircraft and various war plants.

BLACKBIRDS ARE ROBBING GARDENS

Has your Victory garden been robbed?

Well, don't blame it all on Br'er Rabbit.

In an announcement today, game officials pointed out that the purple grackle (blackbird) likes Victory gardens too. In fact he likes them so well he has practically spent the summer in them, from the time the first peas were ready to harvest, he and his sisters, brothers, children and cousins have grown fat and bold on peas, tomatoes and sweet corn, making short work of the Victory garden's fond hopes of a good crop.

The birds have grown so numerous and pestiferous in recent years that the State Game Commission removed protection from them, hoping that the hunters would do their part to decrease the current population.

There are three good reasons why hunters should go gunning for blackbirds this year.

First, there is the sport of hunting. Hunting blackbirds is just as much fun as hunting quail or any other game bird. Blackbirds are small and quick. Besides, you don't have to go far to find them.

Second, save the Victory garden. Food is scarce. It is vital that we raise all the food we can.

Last, but not least, "four and twenty blackbirds baked in a pie" is a more tasty dish than most persons suppose. Try it, hunters. Shoot the blackbirds, and "kill three birds with one stone."

NEWEST FABRIC IS "BALLOON CLOTH"

By International News Service COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (INS)—In case milady has been wondering where all the stocks of marquisette, swiss and voile have gone this summer, they're being used as insect nettings for military use, for one thing.

Cotton has gone to war in large quantities although the War Production Board is allowing some percales and ginghams to be used for clothing. Cotton eyelet can still be found, but with a higher price tacked on. Rayons furnish the most popular materials, but manufacturers will not guarantee against shrinkage or on wrinkle-resistant finishes.

One new fabric is balloon cloth for women's dresses and foundation garments. This cloth was originally made for barrage balloons, but the government has released some to manufacturers. It is a high-priced cotton, strong, smooth, even in texture and has no fuzz.

Here and There In Bucks County Towns

Shechtman was not hurt but other occupants were. They are: Louis Goldberg, 52; his wife, Molly, 51, and Mr. Goldberg's mother, Ida, 74. They were taken to the Doylestown Emergency Hospital in a O. P. James Memorial ambulance, given first aid and transferred to the Jewish Hospital, Philadelphia.

David Redvin, 48, of 4914 B st., Phila., the fifth occupant of the car, was treated at the scene of the accident.

NEW CASTLE.—(INS)—The heat-withered citizens of New Castle are being urged already to speed their Christmas shopping. Postal officials claim they'll be doing the government a favor while cooling off mentally.

BADENHAUSEN TO ATTEMPT TO EVEN LEAGUE SERIES

Boiler Makers Ready To Defeat Voltz on Cornwells Heights Field Tomorrow

GAME STARTS AT 2.30

Shackleton's Turn To Be On The Mound for Voltz Tomorrow

The Badenhause team will attempt to even the playoff series of the Bristol Suburban League when it meets the Voltz-Texaco nine tomorrow afternoon on the Bensalem Township high school field, Cornwells Heights. Games will begin at 2.30 o'clock.

The Voltz team jumped into the lead of the series Thursday evening by scoring an 8-7 triumph over the Badies on the high school field. Prior to that the teams had battled to a 1-1 deadlock.

Manager George Dougherty, of the gasoblers juggled his line-up to pull out a winner on Thursday evening and there is a possibility that he may do the same tomorrow. Dougherty lost Vince Stratton, his catcher, to the armed forces and he was forced to use "Bill" Leigh behind the plate. There is also a possibility that Bernie Lyzack may go back to catching and Leigh would be used elsewhere.

It is Hal Shackleton's turn to toe the slab for Voltz. Shackleton hasn't pitched in the series as Howard Black pitched the first game and Ed Sullivan and Grimes hurled the second contest. Benny Samsel, the Badies' star moundsman, is on the injured list and will most likely see the contest from the bench. Manager Johnny Hemp hasn't named his hurler as Paul Dean saw action in both of the two games played.

Bristol and Morrisville boroughs, and Bensalem Township. These three districts have their own school superintendents, and do not come under jurisdiction of the Bucks County board of directors. They have full authority in themselves to establish vocational schools if they desire. The county board must be granted power to establish such schools or classes in the other districts if they are desired, however.

It is anticipated that if the plan meets with approval in the various districts some plans will be worked out by the county board, but with districts of Bristol, Morrisville and Bensalem co-operating possibly, as the county board has expressed a desire to work out a satisfactory plan with all boards. If such measure is approved the county board will become a vocational board, states Charles H. Boehm, superintendent of Bucks County public schools.

Members of the county board are not in favor of separate vocational schools. They favor, instead, several industrial arts departments in the large departments as parts of the educational system. These will not be competitive, but complementary. Not all will teach the same subjects.

Mr. Boehm said that the county is not adapted to have separate plants.

Instead there would be added rooms for the training, with the federal government providing for part of the expense for teaching staff, equipment and rooms. Until additions can be built to the high schools to accommodate the new training courses, it will be necessary, it was explained, to rent space outside of the schools.

When the adjustment or readjustment of veterans is completed, it was explained, the facilities will be open to students of the schools and to adults.

Prospects indicate that there will be about 800 veterans who must be provided for in the planning which will add one mill to the school tax.

The discussion also included the establishment of refresher courses. The veterans objected to any Federal control, although Federal money will provide about 80 percent of the funds for salaries. They want local control.

Legal advice will be sought, and the project will be acted upon just as quickly as possible, County Superintendent Boehm states.

Attending the conference, was Dr. Paul Cressman, of the Penna.

Department of Education, who approved the plan.

ADDITIONAL AMERICAN FORCES ENTER PARIS; INFANTRY FOLLOWS ARMORED UNITS; ALL RESISTANCE OVERCOME

Advance to Cathedral of Notre Dame, Official Commu-
nique from General Eisenhower's Headquarters Reveals—One Armored Column Crosses Sevres Bridge

An official communique from General Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters confirmed the entry of additional American forces into Paris.

By noon Friday one armored column had crossed the Sevres bridge over the Seine and another column had progressed into the southern part of the city. Infantry followed the armored units, advancing to the cathedral of Notre Dame.

Additional Allied armor and infantry have arrived in Paris, it was announced officially today.

All enemy resistance in the southern and southwestern outskirts of Paris has now been overcome.

McCrory, Nichols Sign An Agreement of Sale

An agreement of sale has been negotiated between William B. Nichols and McCrory's 5 and 10 Cent Store, by which the latter will acquire possession of properties at 112, 114, 116, 118 and 120 Wood street, and 238 and 240 Market street, if negotiations are completed in accordance with the agreement.

The McCrory interests, it is reported, plan to extend their present store on Mill street through to Market street, and along Wood street on the properties which they plan to acquire.

McCrory has also signed a lease for 10 more years for the property of Thomas Proffy at the corner of Mill and Wood streets, which is part of the McCrory store adjoining, and which latter was formerly occupied by Edward Wallace as a grocery store.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Quakertown Rotarians had an official visit from the District Governor, George Derry, Philadelphia, at this week's meeting held on Tuesday evening. Mr. Derry not only addressed the dinner meeting of the club, but, prior to the dinner, met with the club officers and committee chairman for a conference on Rotary work.

"Ladies' Night" featured the meeting of the Chalfont Lions Club held at Kline's Hotel, Blooming Glen, Wednesday night with the president, A. Winthrop Hiscoc presiding. The informal program, in charge of Carl Young, was thoroughly enjoyed by the 66 Lions and their guests.

Following a delicious clam bake, guests were introduced. These included Sgt. Robert Winkelman, of Chalfont. Winkelman is home on his first leave since joining the Army three years ago, and has spent twenty-seven months in New Guinea. E. I. Crouthamel, secretary of the Warrington Township Lions Club and Mrs. Crouthamel; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Agee, of Chalfont; Mr. and Mrs. DeHaven A. Kane, Elkins Park; Miss Margaret Griffith, Germantown; and Mr. and Mrs. C. Herbert Halldeman, Doylestown.

Silverdale's lone nonagenarian, Thomas Doriety, quietly observed his 97th birthday anniversary on Tuesday, at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Doriety, Silverdale.

Despite his advanced age he engaged in a bit of victory gardening during the summer and occasionally strolls to the general store and post-office.

When the right rear tire of a sedan blew out Wednesday evening, causing the car to overturn three times on the Lackawanna Trail, near Danboro, and came to a stop behind in the opposite direction, four occupants were injured, but a fifth—the driver—was uninjured.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Disappointing

Washington, Aug. 24. PERHAPS, it is too much to expect any candidate seeking public office to criticize any organized number of voters or to indict any of the many pressure groups which in recent years have become important in the American political scene. Rather, the disposition in both parties and among all candidates is to conciliate and placate these groups, to ignore the way in which they promote themselves at the expense of the general interests and praise them far beyond their deserts.

THIS is the inevitable result of the fierce competition for the votes of the special classes which in so many electorally important States constitute the balance of power between the two big parties. Probably

PART THREE: TAXES IN DISGUISE

(Doylestown Intelligencer, August 26)

Taxes are the moneys which citizens turn over to the government to finance public affairs.

The longest stride toward good government will have been taken when it is universally recognized that taxes really are paid, not by individuals, but by the whole people.

Outside of sheer confiscation of individual properties, such as has happened with none-too-happy final results in certain revolutions, the ingenuity of man has never discovered a form of taxes which are paid by the individual without being shared by the community.

The "tax the rich" programs, the "tax according to ability to pay" theories, however well motivated by some of their exponents, cannot really attain their objectives; because the excess tax of the individual almost un-failingly is passed along by one process or another, while deficiencies in the payments of other individuals also are made up indirectly.

This is a fact which may not be freely accepted by some reformers; but it is one of which both Communists and State-Socialists long ago had a fairly complete understanding. One basic object of total governments always has been "equalize taxes" by wiping them out—by having all property and earnings owned by the government itself, so that it didn't collect taxes at all, but it merely kept them.

To go still a step further off the beaten track, this may be a good occasion to observe that instead of strengthening the finances of the nations, strong centralization weakens them. Two factors, reasonably possible of control in a democracy, are unbridled when the central government becomes too strong. One is the overhead—the cost of running government; centralization means bureaucracy and bureaucracy means waste motion and duplication, growth of the size and extent of the government out of all proportion to either need or revenue. The spenders of public money gradually tend to become more numerous than the producers of it.

Second, too much power in the government unleashes the experimental, speculative tendencies which are restricted in democratic countries. If the people themselves, who are bound to be the ones who will wind up paying the bill, lack either the will or the ability to hold down the amount, there are few governments indeed which will economize for their subjects.

To return to the subject of taxes, a people who have authority sovereign to that of the government itself, and who accept as basic the proposition that they as a whole will eventually pay the tax bill have made the first great stride toward good and sound administration of public affairs.

PVT. GUSTAVE WERNER MISSING IN ACTION

Bensalem Serviceman and Uncle Went to England at Same Time

BOTH PARATROOPERS

Pvt. Gustave F. Werner, Jr., better known as "Duke" to his friends, is missing in action in France, according to word sent by the War Department to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gustave F. Werner, Richlieu Road, Bensalem Township.

Pvt. Werner, aged 21, is a paratrooper. He and his uncle, Phillip Rohaty, also 21 of Steele avenue, Bristol Township, are both paratroopers and went to England at the same time.

The Bensalemite entered the service in June, 1942, and has been overseas since January.

Frank Addeo, Jr., Dies Very Suddenly Here

Frank Addeo, Jr., 14, son of Frank and Daisy Addeo, died suddenly this morning at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Pagliano, 418 Lafayette street.

The deceased suffered a heart attack.

The survivors, in addition to the parents, are one brother, Richard. Frank was a student at the Jefferson avenue public school. He was born in Bristol.

Urges Scout Support

JUDGE HIRAM H. KELLER

JUDGE KELLER ASKS SUPPORT FOR SCOUTS

Appeals to Public to Put Drive for $20,000 Over The Top

DRIVE STARTS SOON

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 26—Judge Hiram H. Keller, of the Bucks county courts—president of the Bucks County Council, Boy Scouts of America—today issued an appeal for county-wide support for the $20,000 maintenance drive that will get under way shortly, for the Scout movement in the county.

"Old enough to understand, too young to fight, today American boys of Cub and Scout age in Bucks county by the hundreds look for action and adventure, but where will they find it?"

That's part of Judge Keller's timely statement issued at his offices here as announcement of the campaign was made.

"No one questions the seriousness of the youth problem today," Judge Keller commented. "All the boys in the county of Cub and Scout age want a part in the war. They have enthusiasm and energy unlimited. They need only to have some one point the way."

"We of Bucks county intend to do something about it. We are determined to secure additional sponsoring institutions for new Cub Scouts, Scout troops and Senior Scout units."

"To achieve these ends we need the help of every individual in Bucks county. It may be a real sacrifice for you to give to them now, but your generosity today may save many lives and thousands of dollars in years to come."

Allied Troops Move for Final Kill near Elbeuf

Supreme Headquarters, AEF—Allied troops were moving in today for a final kill against the remnants of the German Seventh Army which have now been sealed off in a small pocket on the west bank of the Seine River near Elbeuf. The news was made known officially as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced that all organized German resistance in Paris has now ended.

A junction of American and British forces in the Elbeuf area succeeded in sealing off the retreating Germans on a line running from that town to Brionne and then eastward along the Risle river, American and other Allied forces are now moving in the final kill between the Risle and the Seine. British and Canadian troops have crossed the Risle at many places and now hold both banks as far north as Mont Fort-Sur-Risle. The Canadian forces, said officially to be moving at top speed, are nearing the Seine everywhere from Louviers to the sea. One armored column has reached the Seine east of Louviers at St. Pierre Du Vauvray. The Yank penetration to Troyes was said to be causing the Germans to withdraw northeast toward Montargis.

In the lower Seine area, the Nazis are continuing to get across the river north of Elbeuf. The American bridgehead at Gassicourt is still considered secure. The whole west bank of the Seine from Mantes to Elbeuf has now been cleared of the enemy. American forces also were officially reported as having crossed the Seine in the Corbelle area. Canadian forces are within eight miles of Rouen, although still on the west side of the Seine.

Robot Bomb Sites Battered by Allies

London—Nazi industrial and communications facilities over wide stretches of western Europe, and robot bomb sites in northern France were battered last night by armadas totalling more than 1,000 RAF heavy bombers, the British Air Ministry announced today.

Simultaneously, official sources announced Ninth Air Force bombers supporting the American advance through France have wrought a terrible toll among enemy transport columns, including more than 1,000 motor vehicles in the last three days. Industrial plants at Russelsheim were hit in a highly concentrated assault. The manufacturing and railroad city of Darmstadt also was attacked and mines laid in enemy waters.

Blackout Date Is Still Undecided

HARRISBURG, Aug. 26—County Defense Councils were advised today that there was no assurance that an air raid drill would be held in Pennsylvania before September 1st, as previously announced.

Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchison, executive director of the State Council of Defense, sent the following telegram to county chairmen:

"In a bulletin, we informed you an air raid drill would be called by the Army before September 1st. No such drill is now assured before September 1st, and we have no information as to when such drill will be called."

Surprise Is Arranged For Mrs. John Gallagher

Mrs. John Gallagher, Bristol Terrace, was tendered a surprise party, Tuesday evening, at the home of Mrs. Lyman Crowsaw, Schunmacker Drive. The evening was enjoyed playing cards, and prizes were given.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. R. Jones, Mrs. A. Kessel, Mrs. W. Heffernan, Mrs. E. Schaeffer, Mrs. R. James, Mrs. R. Hoezle, Mrs. J. Cerutti, Mrs. Joseph Ryan, Mrs. R. Turley, Mrs. W. Parr, Mrs. F. Esposito.

GOVERNMENT TO PAY $14,277.48 TO SCHOOLS

Bristol Twp. School District Will Receive Money In Lieu of Taxes

TO MAIL CHECKS SOON

Checks totaling $14,277.48, a payments in lieu of taxes on Bristol Terrace I and Bristol Terrace II war housing projects, will shortly be mailed to the Bristol Township School District, according to word just received by Arthur Frank, Housing Manager from John A. Kervick, Regional Director of the Federal Public Housing Authority.

The payments were calculated on the local tax rate for the year beginning July 1, 1944.

Mr. Kervick pointed out that payments in lieu of taxes approximate taxes which would be paid upon such projects if they were not legally exempt from taxation. However, he explained that the law permits appropriate allowances for expenditures made by the Federal Government for streets, utilities or other public services for such projects.

TRANSFERRED

Cpl. George R. Delia, U. S. Army Air Force, has been transferred from Robins Field, Ga., to Great Bend, Kan.

WHAT OUR BOYS ARE DOING TO WIN THE WAR

15TH AAF IN ITALY, Aug. 26—Joseph A. Morrone, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morrone, 1112 Beaver street, Bristol, Pa., has been awarded the first bronze oak leaf cluster to the Air Medal for "meritorious achievement in aerial flight."

Sgt. Morrone, 15th Air Force Liberator gunner, veteran of many missions against German installations, came to Italy several months ago and has compiled an outstanding record in the air.

A former employee of Leedom's Carpet Company, Morrone entered the air force in March 1943, later won his wings after intensive air training.

DISPOSAL OF WAR HOUSING

One aspect of the gigantic problem of disposing of government-owned war surpluses, soon to receive consideration in Congress, has already been taken care of. The Lanham Act of 1940 establishes the policies to be followed by the government in disposing of housing constructed with public funds during World War II.

The Lanham Act provides that:

Housing of permanent construction shall be sold to private buyers "as expeditiously as possible," after the President shall have declared the war emergency at an end.

Temporary housing at war plants, military reservations and elsewhere is to be demolished "as promptly as may be practicable in the public interest," and in any event within a period of two years after the close of the war.

Demountable dwellings of permanent construction, of which approximately 85,000 have been erected—most of them on leased land—may be resold for demounting and reassembling.

Temporary dormitories on park lands and other public grounds are to be removed within two years after the termination of hostilities.

The National Housing Agency
announces that it is at present laying plans for disposal of the permanent housing, erected at a cost of $1,000,000,000, which is to be sold "as expeditiously as possible" at "a fair market price."

The law provides that none of this housing may be conveyed to any public or private agency organized for slum clearance or to provide dwellings for low-income families.

First chance to purchase the permanent properties is to be given to large buyers willing to take entire projects off the government's hands. One such sale has already been consummated, with the recent transfer to private ownership of a $3,615,000 Defense Homes Corporation project
at Newport News, Virginia.

Where properties are not purchased as a whole, preference in the purchase of separate units probably will be given to present occupants or to war veterans.

The units range in value from $4,000 to $10,000. Government-guaranteed loans up to $2,000,
without interest for the first year, will be available to veterans for down payments under the "GI Bill of Rights."

While the Presidential party was making the grand tour, it seems surprising that nobody was thoughtful enough to distribute absent-voter ballots.

Britain and the United States have reached an agreement on a program for postwar oil which,
it is to be hoped, has no provision for "A" rations.

The manner in which Yanks headed for Paris is an indication they remember stories doughboys of 1918 told about the place.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

torial and political routine which ordains that on the first Monday in September our public men—especially those after votes—should vie with each other in fulsome eulogy of the performances of labor. Especially has this been the nauseating custom since the war began—nauseating because the eulogies conflict so violently with the facts and are so clearly insincere.

GOVERNOR DEWEY, from whom something different might reasonably have been expected, fell into step and in his proclamation echoed the extravagant eulogies of Administration spokesmen from the President down. He spoke of the special pride he took in the great patriotism of labor since Pearl Harbor, though that very day the Government had been forced to seize 19 machine shops where indefensible strikes were impending.

defensible strikes were impending period in the whole struggle. He dwelt upon the fact that there had been no single major strike in New York, but passed over the fact that there have been literally thousands of strikes in the nation—and that almost every week sees new ones. He touched upon the "superb co-operation" of labor with industry in making weapons for our fighting men and strongly urged that the restrictions imposed upon labor during the war period be removed as quickly as possible lest they interfere with the "free American labor movement and the right of collective bargaining."

SOW, MR. DEWEY did not have to make this kind of Labor Day statement. It ignores the record and it minimizes the facts. It is the sort to thing which helps boost the labor bosses toward the day for which they are working when they will have unrestricted and unregulated power in the country. It is the same sort of stuff upon which Mr. Roosevelt has fed them for eleven years —and still is feeding them. It is the same sort of Labor Day statement which, under suggestion, high War Department officials have regularly put out since Pearl Harbor, though at the time they made their statements public, their own department production was being badly crippled by strikes which had the tacit approval of the very men to whom they addressed their statements.

THE REPUBLICAN candidate could have declared himself—and sincerely—the true friend of organized labor, expressed his belief in the wisdom of collective bargaining and his appreciation of the real patriotism of the great masses of American working men and union members. And it is unnecessary to maintain that the industrialists are either pure or perfect or that there are not plenty of greedy and selfish men among them. But he should not have ignored the fact that the record shows close to ten thousand strikes since the war began; that the labor bosses, calculatingly, have used the war and their political link with the White House, to force gains to which labor is not entitled; that the "no-strike" pledge, so widely advertised, has been wholly ineffectual; that in some cases the strike leaders have defied orders of the War Labor Board; that great as has been our production, but for the strikes it would have been far greater and we would have had far sooner many more airplanes, ships, tanks, arms and ammunition; that to the extent these have been delayed, the war has been prolonged and the cost in men, money and material increased.

—O—

THOSE ARE the facts, and nearly everybody knows them. It is cowardly, because of possible political repercussions, to ignore them. It is wicked to hold these shoddy labor bosses up as great, unselfish pa-triotists, through fear that unless they are so hailed the accusation of labor baiting or labor hating will be made. For 11 years we have had an administration that has been consistently subservient and servile toward them. Everybody in politics and in the newspaper business knows these things to be true. Large numbers outside both fields know and resent them. Yet, when Labor Day comes around, the candidates all ignore them and pile on the praise. It is rather a disgusting performance, and it is too bad Mr.
Dewey fell into line. It was a fine chance for him to take a different stand because, with the CIO 100 per cent. for Mr. Roosevelt, he could have served the general interests by a fearless frankness on this subject, without really risking any votes.

ing plans and preparations for the cook-out or picnic.

The backyard, a nearby woods or park makes an ideal picnic spot without too much traveling. Though families may curtail their traveling and try to keep the spending of money to a minimum, it isn't necessary to cut out their recreation.
However, they may find that they have to change their type of recreation.

Two or more families may plan
to have their outdoor meal together.
This gives spice and variety to the occasion. Last year in one rural community three families met at a different home, each time at a different home, and ate their dessert together. Each family brought its own dessert, one which had been decided upon at the previous meeting. In this way, the dessert was all the same. For example, one week it was strawberry shortcake, another time homemade ice cream,
and so on.

The families spent the evening together, playing games or just talking. The children planned and carried out their own entertainment.

Good fellowship, neighborliness, exchange of ideas, relaxation, and even leadership may be developed through informal family gatherings. A change from the regular routine and good companionship make up wholesome recreation.

PARATROOPER SAYS SKY FULL OF FIRE

By International News Service
NORTH BEND, Ore.—(INS)—
Getting from the transport plane to the ground was the toughest part of the invasion of France for Pvt. Frank Kustick, a paratrooper who hails from North Bend.
Kustick wrote to friends that he floated down onto French soil on D-Day, June 6 and described the sky as full of fire. He considered himself fortunate to reach the ground in one piece, he said.

After landing the paratroopers had things their own way until af-

LANGHORNE TRACK TO REOPEN AFTER THE WAR IS ENDED

Oval Speedway To Be Operated by Son and Widow of Former Owner

Racing Fans of This Section Are Keenly Interested In Revival of Sport

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Aug. 26.—Interest here centers in an announcement made in the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin Wednesday night that after the war automobile racing is to be revived at the Langhorne Speedway.

The mile dirt track, often reputed to be one of the fastest strips of its kind in the nation, has been closed since the start of the war.

According to the announcement after the war automobile racing will return to the Langhorne Speedway. It has been revealed, Ralph J. Hankinson, now stationed at Scott Field, Ill., an Army Air base, and his mother, widow of Ralph Hankinson, will promote the races. Mrs. Hankinson holds the mortgage on the speedway.

Many local racing fans were desirous of learning who held the mortgage on the track after Lucky Teter died of injuries sustained in a crash at a fair several years ago. Teter, who operated the track for a short time, purchased it from Ralph Hankinson and quartered his famed troupe of "Hell Drivers" here for training purposes. In addition, Teter and his crew inaugurated point racing and other features to the Eastern dirt track fraternity.

Previous to the Teter regime, Ralph Hankinson, now deceased, owned the mile orb. With both promoters deceased, rumors were rife in this section that the track was to be sold or discontinued.

Officially sanctioned AAA auto races, midget title grinds, American stock car championships and Labor Day National championship motorcycle races were formerly held at the Middletown Township speedway. Scores of Indianapolis champions and money winners have competed on the surface.

The ODT halted all midget and big car racing at the outbreak of the war to conserve gasoline, tires and to make use of additional manpower. Several of the well-known stars of the past are serving in the armed forces while many others are mechanics in aircraft and various war plants.

BLACKBIRDS ARE ROBBING GARDENS

Has your Victory garden been robbed?

Well, don't blame it all on Br'er Rabbit. In an announcement today, game officials pointed out that the purple grackle (blackbird) likes Victory gardens too. In fact he likes them so well he has practically spent the summer in them, from the time the first peas were ready to harvest, he and his sisters, brothers, children and cousins have grown fat and bold on peas, tomatoes and sweet corn, making short work of the Victory gardener's fond hopes of a good crop.

The birds have grown so numerous and pestiferous in recent years that the State Game Commission removed protection from them, hoping that the hunters would do their part to decrease the current population.

There are three good reasons why hunters should go gunning for blackbirds this year. First, there is the sport of hunting. Hunting blackbirds is just as much fun as hunting quail or any other game bird. Blackbirds are small and quick. Besides, you don't have to go far to find them.

Second, save the Victory garden. Food is scarce. It is vital that we raise all the food we can.

Last, but not least, "four and twenty blackbirds baked in a pie" is a more tasty dish than most persons suppose. Try it, hunters. Shoot the blackbirds, and "kill three birds with one stone."

NEWEST FABRIC IS "BALLOON CLOTH"

By International News Service COLLEGE STATION, Tex.

(INS)—In case military has been wondering where all the stocks of marquisette, swiss and voile have gone this summer, they're being used as insect nettings for military use, for one thing.

Cotton has gone to war in large quantities although the War Production Board is allowing some percales and gingham to be used for clothing. Cotton eyelid can still be found, but with a higher price tacked on. Rayons furnish the most popular materials, but manufacturers will not guarantee against shrinkage or on wrinkle-resistant finishes.

One new fabric is balloon cloth for women's dresses and foundation garments. This cloth was originally made for barrage balloons, but the government has released some to manufacturers. It is a high-priced cotton, strong, smooth, even in texture and has no fuzz.

A World of Tomorrow

BADENHAUSEN TO ATTEMPT TO EVEN LEAGUE SERIES

Boiler Makers Ready To Defeat Voltz on Cornwells Heights Field Tomorrow

GAME STARTS AT 2.30

Shackleton's Turn To Be On The Mound For Voltz Tomorrow

The Badenhause team will attempt to even the playoff series of the Bristol Suburban League when it meets the Voltz-Texaco nine tomorrow afternoon on the Bensalem Township high school field, Cornwells Heights. Games will begin at 2.30 o'clock.

The Voltz team jumped into the lead of the series Thursday evening by scoring an 8-7 triumph over the Badies on the high school field. Prior to that the teams had battled to a 1-4 deadlock.

Manager George Dougherty, of the gasoliers juggled his line-up to pull out a winner on Thursday evening and there is a possibility that he may do the same tomorrow. Dougherty lost Vince Stratton, his catcher, to the armed forces and he was forced to use "Bill" Leigh behind the plate. There is also a possibility that Bernie Lyzack may go back to catching and Leigh would be used elsewhere.

It is Hal Shackleton's turn to toe the slab for Voltz. Shackleton hasn't pitched in the series as Howard Black pitched the first game and Ed Sullivan and Grimes hurled the second contest. Benny Samsel, the Badies' star moundsman, is on the injured list and will most likely see the contest from the bench. Manager Johnny Hemp hasn't named his hurler as Paul Dean saw action in both of the two games played.

Bristol and Morrisville boroughs, and Bensalem Township. These three districts have their own school superintendents, and do not come under jurisdiction of the Bucks County board of directors. They have full authority in themselves to establish vocational schools if they desire. The county board must be granted power to establish such schools or classes in the other districts if they are desired, however.

It is anticipated that if the plan meets with approval in the various districts some plans will be worked out by the county board, but with districts of Bristol, Morrisville and Bensalem co-operating possibly, as the county board has expressed a desire to work out a satisfactory plan with all boards. If such measure is approved the county board will become a vocational board, states Charles H. Boehm, superintendent of Bucks County public schools.

Members of the county board are not in favor of separate vocational schools. They favor, instead, several industrial arts departments in the large departments as parts of the educational system. These will not be competitive, but complementary. Not all will teach the same subjects.

Mr. Boehm said that the county is not adapted to have separate plants.

Instead there would be added rooms for the training, with the federal government providing for part of the expense for teaching staff, equipment and rooms. Until additions can be built to the high schools to accommodate the new training courses, it will be necessary, it was explained, to rent space outside of the schools.

When the adjustment or readjustment of veterans is completed, it was explained, the facilities will be open to students of the schools and to adults.

Prospects indicate that there will be about 800 veterans who must be provided for in the planning which will add one mill to the school tax.

The discussion also included the establishment of refresher courses. The veterans objected to any Federal control, although federal money will provide about 80 percent of the funds for salaries. They want local control.

Legal advice will be sought, and the project will be acted upon just as quickly as possible. County Superintendent Boehm states, "Attending the conference, was met by Paul Cressman, of the Penfa. garet E. Nicholas, of Mansfield, a Department of Education, who approved the plan.

TAXATION AND FINANCE

raised without the passage of a single bill which we would ordinarily call tax legislation.

Both currency inflation and increases in public debt are forms of taxation. When currency is devalued, the national treasury is enriched—for the time being, at least—by lessened resources needed to support the currency, and by decreases in the amount needed to retire government securities. The difference comes from the pockets of those who are using the currency. This process may miss some of the technical earmarks of taxation—but it is a taking away from the individual for the profit of the government.

Growing national debt is clearly an increase in taxes. Not merely do such debts place a growing mortgage on future taxation, the only source for repaying such debts; but the current taxes need to rise to meet the interest on the obligations.

National debt itself is a species of inflation, since it is an increase in liabilities without any corresponding increase in assets. Usually mounting debt creates an almost overwhelming desire to meet it by currency inflation.

President Roosevelt yielded early in his administration to such pressure for inflation. By the repudiation of gold and the issuance of new silver and Federal Reserve currency, he "devalued" the dollar approximately half.

This was hardly in line with his campaign pledge of a "sound currency to preserve at all hazards."

Possibly he may justify himself on the basis of the moderation with which this inflationary step was taken. He was granted and still holds powers of life or death over American currency probably the greatest any executive of a purportedly free government ever possessed.

It has been estimated that, by the use of these powers the President might whenever he chooses devalue the present dollar to approximately ten cents—inflation of some 900 per cent.
